Monarch.

The story of the now-extinct California brewery.

Talk Back

BY MARCIA BUTTERBAUGH #6560

I'm ready for Nashville! Ready with cans and breweriana, ready to see old friends and meet new ones, ready to party, and ready to see the city. Chuck Hillyer has painted a colorful picture of what to expect in the Canvention Update on page 11. And Dave Gausepohl has given us a great way to make a driving trip more fun on the way home with listings of micro breweries to visit. See his column on page 23.

We've received a lot of good feedback from Bruce Remick's Sports Cans feature, including this letter from Bill Christensen #33:

"Apart from the U.S. sports cans, there are also lots of foreign sports cans. A few obvious examples are Courage Footy Stars, Cricket, sports "ovals," rugby teams and Foster's annual golf cans, all from Australia. And from other parts of the world, German and Dutch football soccer team cans, Italian bicycling cans and football cans, and Japanese baseball cans. How about a foreign collector writing a feature covering these cans?"

Thanks to the 368 members who responded. From those responses came over 500 individual comments with many excellent ideas. The BCCA has decided to repeat the survey with your membership renewal in October, and make it an annual survey. By doing this, we can keep tabs on your thoughts about the content of the magazine, how you feel about the BCCA, and track trends in the hobby.

General Comments:

There were several comments saying that we shouldn't forget we are a beer can collecting group first, and not to stray too far away from editorials featuring beer cans. Also, there were lots of members wanting to see more about collectors and their collections.

A major complaint was on the long lead time for the Want Ads. We are working on that, but it's a difficult problem because the magazine goes to the printer a month before it is mailed. For instance, this is the Aug/Sep issue and it goes to the printer July 1. Want ads are due in the BCCA office on June 1 to allow time to process, organize and input them on the computer, and then proof them. So an ad that came in on June 1 actually doesn't appear until August 1 and many times a member's ad is "obsolete" by then. We are looking at new procedures using the computer to shorten the lead time.

Another complaint is on the post office's delay in delivering the magazine. There is usually some area of the country experiencing a delay -- always a different area. The June/July issue got to Canada and California almost two weeks before it arrived in parts of the southeast! We know that the problem is with the local post offices, and because we mail second class bulk rate, the only recourse is to complain to your local post office.

On a more positive note, here are some of the statistical findings from the survey:

Editorial Content:

The two newest columns, Can Close Up and Auction Block, ranked in the top 20% as the most favorite regularly read columns among all respondents. The tin-over-cardboard series and the Grace Brothers Brewing Company feature were ranked the most favorite feature stories during 1993.

Only 8% believe there is not sufficient news and information about beer cans and breweriana in each issue and only 4% believe there is not sufficient coverage on the social aspect of the hobby in each issue.

94% believe color photos of cans and breweriana make stories more interesting

98% believe the magazine is a valuable part of their BCCA membership

About Collectors:

93% of our membership collect domestic beer cans, but only 64% collect current cans!

77% collect breweriana and 73% have an interest in pre-prohibition breweriana.

64% have responded to advertising in the magazine, and over 50% have placed ads in the Want Ad column

My greatest surprise was that 77% of our membership collect breweriana and 73% are interested in pre-prohibition breweriana. This tells the BCCA we are going in the right direction to include breweriana editorial.

Regarding color photos - the way we can afford color in the magazine is through advertising revenue. A few collectors complained about too much advertising, but without it, the magazine would be smaller and without color photos. It's a trade off, and a good one because the advertising helps keep the hobby alive, and the magazine gets color editorial.

No matter what comments we receive, the bottom line is that the magazine will only contain what collectors provide. Dan Andrews does a great job of seeking out stories, but he needs your input and ideas. If you are reading this and saying to yourself that you want to see more articles on breweries from your own area, and if you have knowledge about those breweries, let Dan know. It's as simple as calling or writing him. He'll do the work if you can provide the basic information! For those who complained about not seeing things you are personally interested in, I challenge you to contribute.

See you in Nashville!

THE MONARCH BREWING COMPANY LOS ANGELES

by Dan Andrews #2954

Like so many regional breweries, the Monarch Brewing Co. of Los Angeles passed from prominence to extinction during the brief period between the repeal of prohibition and World War II. The brewery was one of several early canning operations on the West Coast and produced some of America's most colorful and rarest beer cans.

Unlike other defunct post-prohibition breweries, most credible information about the Monarch operation and most significant breweriana, have been destroyed or lost with the passage of time.

Two minor variations of the Balboa Export can, Monarch's flagship brand, were produced. One bears a permit number under "Premium Lager" and one does not.

The brewery, which stood only a block away from the grand old Los Angeles Brewing Company, was demolished while ancient surrounding buildings remain standing today. Although it was once California's eleventh largest brewery, advertising for Monarch's many brands is almost nonexistent. Surviving correspondence and paper work, common to other defunct breweries, consist of only a few pieces. The discovery of a handful of cans and several bottle labels by collectors document the existence of many brands from this unique brewery.

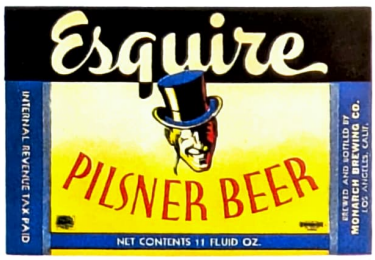
Founded in 1903, the Mathie Brewing Co. prospered until prohibition forced its closure in 1920. The empty plant was sold to the Balboa Brewing Co. of San Diego and reopened with repeal in 1933. Neither Mathie nor Balboa had canning lines. Their flagship brand, Balboa Beer, was not canned until Monarch took over in 1937.

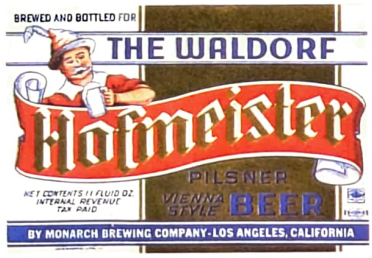
Andrews Eisenbeiss, Monarch's early brewmaster and proprietor, was the product of a Bavarian brewing family that settled in the Midwest. His first brewing experience was with Manhattan Brewing Company. of Chicago. He also co-managed Two Rivers Beverage Co. of Wisconsin with his brother, George, before moving to California.

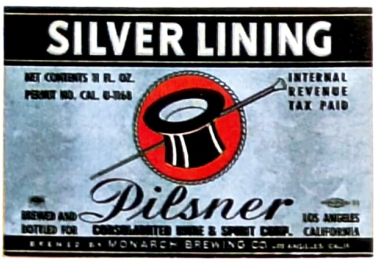
Illness forced his retirement, and he died in August of 1941, just months before Monarch closed. At the time of his death, seventy-one percent of brewery stock was owned by the Arctic Fur Co.of Los Angeles. Presumably furrier J. Thompson knew little about beer production because he hired veteran brewmaster William Horn to produce lager beer and ale. ...next page

In addition to Balboa Beer in cans, Monarch marketed seven other known brands in cans. They range in availability from rare to extremely rare: Balboa (rare); Brownie (a handful known); Chief (less than a handful known); Coronado (rare, a few dumpers found); Finer Flaver Ale (probably the rarest); Finer Flaver Beer (probably most common, although still rare); Palomar (a handful known); Town House (extremely rare).

From 1937-1941, Monarch was active in contract brewing for private labels. However, the customers for these brands were not known. The mystery is compounded because few, if any bottles with labels on them have been found. Almost 30 different brands have been identified with names like: King George, Chuck's Special, Golden Star, Keystone Special Export, Mueller's Perfection, Old Mack, Queensbury, Reno Club, and Osborne's Pilsner . From Bob Kay's collection are the following examples:







Monarch Brewing Company, Los Angeles

Monarch's struggle for profitability ended in November 1941 when all its labels and assets were sold to Grace Brothers Brewing Co. Because Grace was already operating a brewery in Los Angeles, they had no interest in the Monarch plant. The building was closed and eventually demolished. Grace modified the Balboa and Finer Flaver beer labels and continued to can both. Imperial Pilsner, previously Monarch's premium bottled beer, was also canned by Grace. The remaining canned and bottled brands were rendered obsolete.

Most interesting about the sale was the inventory of advertising pieces turned over to Grace Brothers. In excess of eight hundred neon signs promoting Ambassador, Balboa, Chief, Edelbrau, Hofmeister, Imperial and Loop were surrendered. Over two thousand additional cardboard signs and eleven hundred lighted signs for various Monarch brands were also included. With the exception of a few cardboard signs, none of this breweriana cache has surfaced to date.

Based on Monarch's extensive brand list and early canning history, one can presume the eight brands which have surfaced in cans may be only a sample of what was actually produced. Monarch enthusiasts like to believe the cans and advertising pieces are out there somewhere. Sort of a "breweriana" version of the lost gold mine or Spanish galleon, discoverable with enough clues!

All Monarch cans were produced before World War II, but only Finer Flaver Beer and Ale bore the opening instruction wording "internal revenue tax paid."

Although records indicate the existence of thousands of advertising pieces from cardboard signs to neons, when Monarch closed in 1941 only a handful of cardboard signs had been found.

President's Message

BY SHAR KIELACK #7799

On June 18, Don and I attended a wedding in Michigan between Jim Mahler #27267 and Donna Nybo #28634. Leo Wentland #14948 and Adriane Zmudzinski #27999 were the best man and maid of honor. Jim and Donna met on the bar tour at the Toronto Canvention. Best wishes Jim and Donna!

Don and I made a trip in April to Safford, Arizona for the A-1 Chapter show. The weather was beautiful and I was able to pick up a couple of nice western pieces for my collection. We stayed at Dick and Marie Johnson's house and Dick made every effort to pack a two week vacation into a four day weekend! Collectors in Arizona put their collections in their garages since they don't have basements. Dick Johnson's and Bob Hahn's garages are like visiting a shrine. Thanks to Dick, Marie, Bob, Terri and all the rest of the A-1 Chapter for a great time.

We journeyed up to the Point Brewery in Stevens Point, Wi. The Badger Bunch sends a copy of their newsletter to all the breweries in Wisconsin which resulted in the Point Brewery hosting a Badger Bunch meeting. They gave us an excellent tour and provided their hospitality room where we got to sample their new Point Amber. Other chapters might want to send copies of their newsletters to breweries in their area. It really paid off for the Badger Bunch.

Memorial Day weekend found us at the Jersey Shore Picnic. As I have noticed from past canventions, these guys know how to throw a party! Doug Perry had just finished his "Budweiser Museum" in his basement and all the hard work paid off -- it was beautiful. The only complaint I have about the the weekend is they wouldn't let me win in horseshoes or volleyball.

Dumpers Almanac

BY JOHN KOTTEMANN #20507

Ah, another good dumping story. This one really hits home for me because I searched the same area pretty hard about 15 years ago and with great success, turning up Old Gold by Manhattan, Maverick, Crown Darby, Old Bohemia cones, King XXX Ale, among many others. I thought I'd covered the area, but the winter of '94 proved I missed something! Craig Gramlich #29210 will tell the rest of the story.

Andy Caldwell #4068, myself and two friends, Art and Terry, who aren't beer can collectors, planned a dumping trip to check out an area of 1930s resort cabins on the Meramec River in the Ozarks southwest of St. Louis. Despite one of us knowing the landowner, we were denied permission to look around. Disappointed, we had lunch at nearby Meramec State Park, and once there decided to look in that area for some dumps. We immediately spotted a gated roadway that headed into the hills away from the park campground. The roadway hadn't been used for years, as indicated by fallen logs across the pavement. We hiked for a quarter of a mile when we noticed a trace of a dirt roadway which intersected the old paved road. Art and I headed up this barely visible road, which reduced to nothing more than a pathway beyond an intersecting power line cut.

As we continued, I spotted the sun glimmering off what looked to be some old bottles -- BINGO!. Beer cans became visible as we sprinted toward this beautiful sight! We first spotted faded Pabst Export (BCU 103-28) and St. Louis ABC (42-2). After a little poking around, I almost had heart failure when I found an Imperial Pilsener (83-32). We began digging frantically and were soon joined by Andy and Terry, who had previously continued exploring down the main road. Andy found a Prima Gold Medal (107-29), then a Royal Pilsner "J-spout" (33-32). Grinning at each other, we knew the dump was a virgin.

After a few minutes of crazed excavation, Andy realized we were destroying this dump by stomping on good cans and burying stuff that hadn't surfaced yet. We got organized, found the downhill edge of the dump and began digging from the bottom. The deeper cans were in good shape, with little or no fade. We found more Pabst, ABC, Prima, Royal Pilsner and then some Manhattan (91-31), Best's Hapsburg (47-32), Budweiser (51-31), Sterling (120-31), Drewry's (60-37), Ballantine's Ale (like 45-19), Falstaff cones (23-25, the rare one), Blatz cones (19-13), Kollers Topaz cones (28-23) and a Manhattan Growler Quart (158-6). We also found a large metal Walter's Brewing Company sign that was unfortunately too rusted for restoration.

We were unable to finish the dump that day, but Art and I returned the next day to finish it off. We found more samples of most of the cans found the previous day. Unfortunately most of the Royal Pilsners were up next to the roadway, and were crush and mangled by the trash trucks. Andy went back the next weekend, dug through the entire dump and found even more cans.

We found at least 16 labels, excluding minor variations! Because the dump also contained food and beverage cans, it's likely that this was the state park dump during 1939 and maybe 1940. Nothing much newer or older was found.

After two years of dumping with only mediocre luck, this dump made it all worthwhile. It had the quality and quantity of 1930s cans that we dumpers dream of finding!

Epilogue: This story proves to me that no area is "dumped out," despite what other collectors may say. I probably walked within 100 yards of this dump in the late '70s, but missed it. There's more out there, folks! Remember to get organized and start at the downhill edge of those dumps and work up.

Keep the photos and stories coming. Send to John Kottemann, 6812 Bear Creek, Oakville MO 63129 (314) 846-0555

Re-incanation – A Can Restoration

by Rod Wideman #26693

Once upon a time, a little over fifty years ago, someone's thirst was quenched by a nice cold can of Coors beer in the woods of northern Arizona. That parched person did what most people of that era did with empty beer cans -- they tossed it. Threw it right on the ground. They stomped on it. It was flattened.

It came to rest just off the trail, in between some pine trees. The Arizona sunshine could still make its way through the tree branches and coax a good portion of the can's colors from it. The deep sleep of hibernation began.

Now, five decades later in that very woods, I found a brownish colored piece of metal...the remains of that old Coors beer can.

I've seen basket cases before, and this can is pretty far gone. But since it is a tougher "waterfall" variety I decided to try and spruce it up a bit. I don't do a lot of these, but I figure the practice is good for when I encounter something really spectacular. As you can see from the first picture, the denting to the can is very extensive. My first order of business was to try to straighten it out. I removed the top lid using a combination of a can opener and tin snips. I could have used a grinding wheel to separate the inner lid from the rim, but I didn't want to spend the time. This was a tough one to bend back into shape. I spent about an hour with increasing sizes of pipes working the primary dent out far enough so I could fit it on my main dent working pipe. This pipe is just slightly smaller than the inner dimension of a can. I've seen better jobs removing dents, but I worked on it until it was presentable.

Once the can could stand on its own, I soaked it in oxalic acid for about two hours. The label had faded prior to rusting more than I hoped, but I could still make out the lettering. The results of the acid soaking are shown. The colors are pretty basic on the can and my favorite touch-up color (black) is used heavily.

I spent about another hour or two using watercolor felt tip pens to put back the black and red. For the gold, I used a yellow watercolor and rubbed it in with my fingertip. Combined with the faded silver background, I thought it passed somewhat for the original gold. A more ambitious person could have done the repaint using actual paints, but I usually end up showing brush strokes. Also, with the watercolor it is easy to correct mistakes.

This final picture shows the finished restoration. While it might not suit everyone's tastes for condition it does provide a small feeling of accomplishment. So, does anybody need an old Coors can? I happen to have one for trade.....

A Sign of Past Times

This is a billboard for Tecate Beer taken in 1975 in Chicago along a city expressway. The cans looked like they were covered with flies, but that part of the billboard was actually constructed of a large number of small loose metal sheets that rattled in the wind! (Too bad I didn't have a tape recorder along at the time!)

CANVENTION XXIV UPDATE

September 8-11, 1994 Nashville TN

by Chuck Hillyer #23705

IT'S ALMOST HERE!

As you read this, Canvention XXIV will be only a few weeks away. And as we promised many months ago, all of us in the Goldcrest 51 Chapter along with "Music City USA" are quite prepared to host, and hopefully show you "A GRAND OLE CANVENTION."

In addition to the many great attractions that Nashville has to offer, like Music Row, Grand Ole Opry, Country Music Hall of Fame, etc., Nashville is also currently a "Boom Town!" Just look at the new attractions that have opened this summer:

- Wild Horse Saloon
- Hard Rock Cafe
- Water Taxi to Opryland
- Ryman Auditorium Shows, featuring country legends

Know what's so great about the above? They are all within walking distance of our headquarters hotel.

I would be remiss if I didn't also mention "Tootsie's" located a few blocks from the hotel on Broadway Street. Tootsie's is a world renowned small bar where in years past scores of country stars have gathered following an evening performance at the Grand Ole Opry. It's a real nostalgic trip as the walls are covered with hundreds of autographed photos of country greats. Make it a point to visit, have a cold one and write your name on the wall or table. Believe me, it's tradition!

Just across the street from Tootsie's is "Earnest Tubb's" Record Shop, another gathering place of many an Opry legend of years gone by.

Your individual "goodie bag" will contain much additional information on where to go and what to see during your stay in "Music City USA!"

Just a couple of quick reminders about CANvention XXIV:

- Don't forget your fifties garb for Thursday Night National Hospitality
- Don't forget your country duds for Saturday Night Banquet and Hospitality
- Don't forget your cans and breweriana, as we have three days of general trading
- Don't forget you will be able to leave your goodies on your table overnight

And above all, remember.....:

"In Tennessee, We're Playing Your Song!"

IN PRAISE OF WILL

I want to say "Thanks" to Will for his 14 years of service to the BCCA. Personally, I can't imagine myself doing this column anywhere near that long. I'm really going to miss his column. To me, what sets BCCA's Magazine apart from others is the human factor. Publications with only collectible news can be awfully dry and I know they lose MY interest real fast. BCCA is different. For as long as I've been a member, I've read this magazine from back to front, first Jeff & Will, then Ron & Will, and then Will alone when he took over the back page. And now I have one less thing to look forward to.

So Will, from a long-time reader and short-time colleague, thanks again. And good luck in any future BCCA endeavors.

CERVECERIA SAN JUAN

Last December Bob Beberfall was finally able to accompany his wife Ysabel and their children to Ysabel's homeland of Peru. Along with sightseeing and visiting Ysabel's family in Pucallpa, Bob was able to fit in some beer drinking and brewery touring. Let him tell the story:

"The largest brewer in Peru is Backus and Johnston, with four breweries of varying modernization. Cerveceria San Juan in Pucallpa is the smallest of the four and the only one producing cans. Due to terrorist activities against the brewery, they no longer give tours. However, my father-in-law has tended to the otorangos (like jaguars, only larger) in the zoo on the brewery grounds, so he was able to arrange a private tour.

"The day before our tour we were walking through town and saw a crowd surrounding a pickup truck with a six foot beer bottle in the bed. Lo and behold, Backus and Johnston had just come out with San Juan in liter bottles and they were giving out freebies as a promotion! As it was 95° drinking an ice cold beer was the farthest thing from my mind...NOT! I downed half of it in what seemed like one gulp when it slipped from my sweaty hand and smashed. Everyone was yelling 'Buena suerte' (Good luck), and they promptly gave me another, which I transferred to a cup for the photo.

"Our tour was an experience. Security in Peru is not taken lightly. The brewery has a tall fence and guard tower. We left our passports at one gate, entered a second gate and checked our camera and daypack. Then we were accompanied by our guide, Sr. Picon, and an armed guard.

Some very colorful beer cans Bob Beberfall found in Peru: Cristal, Maltina & San Juan

"tritop manzana" paper label from Pucallpa, Peru

"The brewery has 2 canning lines for San Juan and Cristal. I had the wonderful experience of a cold, unpasteurized Cristal snatched from the line. In a corner we noticed about 50 cases of unfilled Maltina cans, but I was only able to obtain 6 cans of this obsolete brand.

I am sincerely thankful to Sr. Picon and Backus and Johnston for their kindness and generosity."

ODDS AND ENDS

Some of Will's features shouldn't die. So here's an open invitation for updates to the breweriana list. And I plan to include the Taste Buddies Canvention Tasting results (excluding the word "worse," of course). However, "Ten Years Ago in the News Report" is doomed. In my house I can't usually find the issue from two months ago!

Just a thought on looking over this year's Hall of Fame candidates. They all probably deserve inclusion, but why are former presidents even on the ballot? Shouldn't anyone who has done that job (with at least two years of officership preceding it) AUTOMATICALLY be inducted? The way it usually goes, although two people CAN be voted in, only one member usually is. That leaves a lot of deserving members out in the cold.

ANOTHER BCCA COINCIDENCE

Ever notice how many shared experiences you have with other BCCA'ers? Here's a good one:

The Smiths, Pat & Lonnie, and the Vetters, Polly & John, have been BCCA friends for over 20 years. They discovered that they shared the same wedding day. Not only that, with the time zone difference, they were probably married at the same moment! The Smiths tied the knot at 2pm CST and the Vetters exchanged vows at 3pm EST!!!

Brand Changes

BY WARREN HARDAKER #696

Spring has arrived, and now we are beginning this August column. I notice that quite a few minor changes are appearing in new cans. A good example of this is the Lite Ice brand. Note the small black diamond and the wording. Also, some are "Beer" and some are listed as "Ale". Busch cans seem to be undergoing a bunch of design changes too.

Had a few minor errors in the April column to note: (Drewry's) can was mispelled and should read Drewery's and I also copied down the wrong number, which should be changed from 3452S to 4102S. Another typo error was the spelling of Old English and of course should be Olde English.

This month's contributors include Oscar Mehl #2573, Dennis McCormick #21393, Mike McCabe #29098, Cam Roos #27529, C.W. Craibe #7082, Bjarne Nilssen #15980, Ed Ackerman #1151, Warren Hardaker #696, Lew Burritt #24827, Oscar Mehl #2573, Roger Bauer #18803, Marcella Schinski #3715, Bruce Munn #24949, John Bell #27807, Ted Wolfe #19747, Rob Harder #1133, Mark Hollis #29115, Mike Hornbuckle #25095 and a cast of Raccoons, and Jim Demmeka #19447.

1. AMERICAN (MADE IN THE USA) (Pittsburgh/Pittsburgh, PA) This brand for Argentina uses the colors red, white, blue and gold. It is a true two-faced, spinneck style with 355ml. Side panel reads "Importador Marcas Internacionales S.A. Thru Argentina". (GW=0) (Unknown) S0001

2-3. BILLARY BEER (Pittsburgh/Pittsburgh, PA) This new brand seems to take aim at the White House (a la Billy Beer), as it is marketed as "The Politically Correct Choice" and was bottled by Pittsburgh for the Presidential Bottlers in Cleveland. The reverse gives you the "Billary Story" and tells you the "Solution to the National Debt." The last line reads that "Any similarity to any person or persons living in a white house is purely coincidental." Silver, blue, red, and white. (GW=5) (UG400) (AM-NA) 1500S

BLACK LABEL LIGHT (Heileman-La Crosse/Baltimore, MD) Like the can shown in the Mar 91 issue, with another canning company. The Heileman number remains the same and the calories remain at 115. (GW=3) (QG 380) (Crown) 2039S

4. BLACK LABEL NA (Heileman-La Crosse/Baltimore, MD) A new, completely redesigned can for this brand. Red, black, white and gold. Also a new mandatory (#11) of "La Crosse, WI and Portland, OR, U.S.A." This can lists 60 calories, but that will most likely change at some point, as they all seem to do. (GW=0) (QE572) (Crown) S2152

5. BLACK LABEL 11-11 MALT LIQUOR (Heileman-La Crosse/Baltimore, MD) First listing for the 16oz version of this brand. Black, silver, and red. (GW=8) (QL 430) (AM-NA) 2177S

BLATZ COLD FILTERED GENUINE DRAFT BEER (Heileman/La Crosse, WI) 2 minor changes on this can since it was last shown in the May 93 issue. The Heileman number is up by one, and the canning company is now different. (GW=5) (QL741) (AM-NA) 2241S

BLATZ LIGHT (Heileman-La Crosse, WI) Last time shown with 98 calories, and Heileman number of QF 931 was the Jan 91 issue. This is almost the same can but with a different canning number, (429-C). The older can was 437-C. (GW=10) (QF 931) (Cont. 429-C) 2255S

BUDWEISER KING OF BEERS (Anheuser-Busch/Houston, TX) Standard 2-face design on this 295ml double crimp neck style can for Venezuela. Side panels read: (1) "Importado...Zulia, Venezuela" and (2) "Cerveza-Budweiser Elaborada Y Por Anheuser-Busch 775 Gellhorn, Houston, TX, U.S.A." (GW=0) (Unknown) S2101

BUSCH BEER (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) A minor change in this 16oz "Busch Clash" can shown last month. This version is from Ball canning company. (GW=4) (Ball 663984) 2214S

6. BUSCH BEER (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) The older style Busch can, which I do not believe that I have shown in a 16oz version. Gold band on bottom with "Natural Ingredients....." was the standard design. (GW=4) (AB B2) 2215S

7. BUSCH BEER (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) The new current design like the Busch Clash cans. The brand name is large, the word "Beer" between the red lines is in block lettering, and "Natural Aging - Natural Carbonation appears in the white part of the can above the gold/blue line that now contains the "12 fl. Oz" information. "National Ingredients" now appears only once on the can, and that is just below the word "Beer," rather than on the bottom as shown on the can above. (GW=6) (CM 663642) 2220S

8. BUSCH BEER (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) The 16oz version in the new design change. See can above (GW=4) (Ball 663985) 2221S

BUSCH BEER (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) Same as the one above, with different canning company. (GW=4) (CM 663985) 2222S

9. COLT ICE MALT LIQUOR (Heileman-LaCrosse/Baltimore, MD) This is like the 12oz can shown last month. This 16oz version has "Smooth Bold Taste" bottomface, and a new Heileman number. Last month's 16oz version has "7.5% Alcohol by Volume" bottomface. (GW=5) (QH000) (AM-NA) 3077S

DRUMMOND BROS. PREFERRED BEER (Evansville/Evansville, IN) Minor change in that no number is shown with canning company and the words "Union Made" have been added. Last shown in May 92. (GW=6) (Ball) 4302S

10. GBX MALT LIQUOR (Minnesota/St. Paul, MN) Another old brand name makes its appearance after many years. This uses white, black, gold, and red in the design. (GW=6) (AM-NA) 7450S

11. GRINGO EXTRA (ALL NATURAL LAGER) BEER (Evansville/Evansville, IN) A new brand being produced here for the "Gringo Beer of Santa Fe, New Mexico." This can is silver and has an Indian dancer on the lower left corner. Turquoise, red, green, black, and the side panel mentions that this was brewed using an "Original 1877 Recipe, Santa Fe, New Mexico Territory." (GW=5) (Ball) 7800S

12. GRINGO LIGHT PREMIUM PILSNER BEER (Evansville/Evansville, IN) Much the same as the can listed above, using the new mandatory (#5) of Gringo Brewing. This can has a different Indian design and the wording "Southwestern Premium Light Beer" located on the spinneck. Colors used here are white, turquoise, black and red. (GW=5) (Ball) 7820S changes on the side panel since the Nov 92 issue. (1) A different canner (Crown) instead of Triangle, (2) Government warning now on 10 lines, instead of 8, and Heileman number increased by 1. (GW=10) (QF431) (Crown) 7791S

13. ICE DRAFT BEER (FROM BUDWEISER) (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, Mo) This is a 24oz ("1 pint 8 Fluid Ounces") can, somewhat like the design shown in the Feb. 94 issue. The background is solid gold, rather than striped, and the label is applied sideways on the can. (GW=3) (AM-NA 661250) 9504S

14. ICEHOUSE ICE BREWED BEER (Plank Road-Miller/Milwaukee, WI) This red, white, blue, silver, and black can lists the brewer as "Plank Road Brewery, Milwaukee, WI." That phrase is located at least 3 times on the label, on the building, under the logo and in the information located bottomface. (GW=7) (None shown) 9200S

15. I.C. PREMIUM NA (Pittsburgh/Pittsburgh, PA) Another can in the new "Premium" design series. Same colors and of course design. (GW=0) (DD810) (AM-NA) S9451

16. LITE (THE GREAT TASTING, LESS FILLING) PREMIUM BEER (Miller/Milwaukee, WI) The 10oz version of the new can listed just below. (GW=4) (None shown) 12100S

17. LITE (THE GREAT TASTING, LESS FILLING) PREMIUM BEER (Miller/Milwaukee, WI) A design change and a logo change from "(A Fine.....) to "The Great Tasting....." and now the Miller eagle and wheat stocks have become the central part of the design. Colors remain the same, though I guess we will be seeing this new look showing up on all of the other sizes. (GW=4) (None Shown) 12101S

18. LITE ICE ALE (Miller/Milwaukee, WI) Note that this is a 16oz "ALE" can, as compared to the 12 oz "Beer" shown last month. The black diamond has the words "5.5% ALC/VOL," as there is different wording on other cans I was told. (ED NOTE: Last month's can was an "Ale" and not a "Beer" as I had written) (GW=3) (None Shown) 12301S

20. LITE ICE BEER (Miller/Milwaukee, WI) The 16oz companion can to the one listed above. (GW=3) (None Shown) 12326S

LOWENBRAU SPECIAL BEER (Miller/Milwaukee, WI) Last shown in the July 92 issue (with a quadneck), this can features a spinneck style top. (GW=7) (None Shown) 12602S

21. MICHAEL SHEA'S BLACK AND TAN (Shea's-Genesee/Rochester, NY) This new brand is a "Porter & Lager" blend brewed with dark chocolate and amber malts. This 16oz version is in a black can with gold, red, green, and silver in the design. (GW=4) (Ball) 19300S

MICHELOB GOLDEN DRAFT LIGHT (Anheuser-Busch/St. Louis, MO) A few slight changes in this 12oz fluted can. Added is the "recycler" phrase, new canner + number, and GW printed on gold background. This version is still 110 Calories and has the 12oz located below the label. (GW=4) (AM-NA 665702) 13182S

MICKEYS FINE MALT LIQUOR (Heileman/La Crosse, WI) Shown in the April 94 issue, this 16oz can has dropped the "4-pack" and has a different Heileman number but does have the hornet between labels. (GW=4) (QF 073) (AM-NA) 13107S

22. MILLER HIGH LIFE (Miller/Milwaukee, WI) Miller has changed the sizes and colors in the brand name. Now "Miller" is in gold and much smaller and "High Life" is in red and quite a bit larger. Other changes include type face in some areas, "Recyclable Aluminum" relocated, and the addition of "for a smooth, premium taste" following ingredients on side panel. (GW=6) (None Shown) 13714S

27. MILWAUKEE'S BEST LIGHT (Miller/Milwaukee, WI) The same changes apply to the (12oz) Light brand as those listed in the above cans. (GW=10) (None Shown) 13857S

OLD MILWAUKEE BEER (Stroh/Detroit, MI) Old version without the three lines bottomface, but now shown in just a spinneck and no crimps. (GW=3) (AM-NA) 15016S

OLD MILWAUKEE FINE PREMIUM BEER (Stroh/Detroit, MI) This can is very similar to can (#15200S) listed in the July 93 issue. 29. OLD STYLE ICE BREWED BEER (Heileman/La Crosse, WI) Heileman's bid into the Iced Beer wars. This stippled black and gray can also uses dark blue, light blue, white, and silver in the 12oz design. (GW=6) (QH011) (Crown) 14960S

OLY BEER (NEON) (Pabst/Lehigh Valley, PA) The Oly (Neon) is now out showing this brewing location. Mandatory lists 3 cities and the can is a spinneck with 2 crimps. Standard color and design. AM-NA (GW=6) 15490S

OLYMPIA LIGHT (A FINE LIGHT BEER) (Pabst/Lehigh Valley, PA) A new listing under this brewing location. The can is a spinneck and has one crimp, lists 3 brewing locations (Lehigh Valley, Tampa and Winston-Salem), and GW is printed in blue. (GW=5) (AM-NA) 15525S

30. PABST COLD FILTERED LIGHT (Pabst/Milwaukee, WI) Like the can shown in the Sept 92 issue, with the exception that this one lists two cities (Milwaukee and Tumwater) while that can had only Milwaukee in the mandatory. (GW=4) (AM-NA) 16041S

31. POINT SPECIAL PREMIUM LAGER BEER (Stevens Point/Stevens Point, WI) Now slightly redesigned from the can last shown in Nov 1990 issue. The logo is a river with the sun setting behind some trees. 32. POINT BOCK BEER (Stevens Point/Stevens Point, WI) A completely redesigned can since the last one shown in Nov of '90. This can is brown, red, white, and gold with a large (and sort of mean looking) goat topface. Like the can above,

ST. IDES PREMIUM MALT LIQUOR (St. Ides-Stroh(?)/Detroit, MI) This 16oz brand has shown up with a lot of different brewing locations over the years, and now we have one from Detroit. Of course now there is no Heileman type number on this can, but all else remains the same. (AM-NA) (GW=6) 17890S

34. SCHLITZ ICE BREWED PREMIUM BEER (Schlitz-Stroh/Detroit, MI) Shown last month in the 12 oz version, we now have a 16oz edition on the market. Same colors and design on this spinneck + 2 crimp style can. (GW=3) (AM-NA) 18946S

ROAM FOR FOAM ON THE WAY HOME!

When it's time to depart Nashville, some of you may like to spend time touring breweries on your way home. If you remember in my last column I mapped out the breweries within a 300-mile radius from Nashville. I will now extend it another 200 miles. This should help you whet your whistle.

Located in the Western panhandle of Florida are two nice brewpubs. McGuires is in Pensacola at 600 East Gregory St. The beers and nickel bean soup are excellent! In Fort Walton Beach, the Santa Rosa Bay Brewery at 54 Miracle Strip Parkway, is a welcome place.

Due to legal problems, South Carolina and Georgia have no Brewpubs or Micro's. However, North Carolina offers several. On the western end of North Carolina you can visit the Tumbleweed Grille & Brewery at 122 Blowing Rock Road, in Boone. Near the center of the state, sample the beers at the Spring Garden Brewery at 714 Francis King Street in Greensboro. Also in Greensboro at 2006 W. Vandalia, you will find the Loggerhead Brewpub. Just north in Winston-Salem, you can tour the Stroh Brewery at 4791 Schlitz Boulevard. Down south in Charlotte, sample a few at Dilworth Brewpub. It is located at 1301 East Boulevard.

Just west of Arkansas you will find a number of breweries in the state of "OK." The brewpubs of Tulsa are the Cherry Street Brewery at 1516 S. Quaker St, and the Tulsa Brewery at 7227 S. Memorial Dr. Located in the metro area of Oklahoma City there are three brewpubs. In OK City proper, you can visit the Bricktown Brewery at 1 North Oklahoma. Norman, a suburb of OK City, has one brewpub -- the Norman Brewing Company, at 102 W. Main St. Another suburb of OK City is Moore. Here you can enjoy the Royal Bavaria Brewpub, located at 3401 S. Sooner Road.

Kansas is home to four brewpubs. In Wichita, the Miracle Brewing Co. is found at 311 S. Emporia, and the River City Brewpub is at 150 N. Mosley. Lawrence, Kansas is where you will find the Free State Brewpub. It is located at 636 Massachusetts. Manhattan, Kansas is home the Little Apple Brewing Co., at 1110 West Loop Shopping Center.

Missouri is now home to four brewpubs, one micro-brewery, and the world's largest brewer (AB). The micro-brewery, which claims the title of "the second largest brewery in Missouri," is the Boulevard Brewery at 2501 Southwest Blvd. The 75th Street Brewpub at 520 W. 75th St, hosts a beer can collection and fine examples of beer trays above its vats! In the center of Missouri, you will find the Flat Branch Brewpub in Columbia, at 115 S. 5th Street. Springfield is home of the White River Mining & Brewing Company at 1027 E. Walnut. The Schafly Brewery & Taproom at 2100 Locus St. Across the river from St. Louis is J.D. Nicks Brewpub at 1711 West Hwy. 50 in O'Fallon, Illinois.

Indiana is home to three brewpubs, one micro-brewery and one regional brewery. In the north, you can visit the Mishawaka Brewpub at 3703 N. Main Street in Mishawaka. About an hour north of Indianapolis you will find the Lafayette Brewpub in downtown Lafayette. Indianapolis is the home of the Broad Ripple Brewpub at 840 E. 65th St., and the Indianapolis Brewing Company at 3450 North Post Road. In southern Indiana, you can stop by the Evansville Brewing Company at 1301 W. Lloyd Expressway.

Wherever you roam, please drive safely on your way home!

The Brewers Journal

BY HENRY HERBST #70

FROM "THE MORE THINGS CHANGE, THE MORE THEY REMAIN THE SAME" DEPARTMENT

I would like to quote some of the comments made in a speech entitled What's Brewing in America? "There have been a number of significant changes in the brewing industry and in our own operation since I last met with you a little more than five years ago." "To put it mildly, then, the going in the brewing industry has been difficult." "Even with fewer breweries, competition never slackens. It becomes more intense from the large national, the regionals and even the local breweries." "We brewers have a bundle of sunshine ahead in future beer consumption based on population trends." "Another reason for our optimism lies in beer's therapeutic value." "Beer contains proteins and carbohydrates which provide energy and repair to the human body." "Contrary to what some of our Blue Nose prohibitionists would say, the popularity of beer is increasing."

If all of the above sounds familiar, it should because these are comments which have been made frequently in recent years. The above quotes are timeless within the U.S. brewing industry for they came from a speech given by Joseph Griesedieck, president of the Falstaff Brewing Corporation before the New York Society of Security Analysts on May 7, 1959 -- 35 years ago!

At that time, Falstaff was operating eight breweries located in seven cities, and was the nation's third largest brewer behind Anheuser-Busch Inc., and the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. Mr. Griesedieck expounded on the fact that their expansion had resulted from the acquisition and modernization of existing breweries at a cost of $6 per barrel of capacity, rather than new construction which ran between $20 to $30 per barrel of capacity. Little did he realize that this was the least efficient long term method of expansion for it lead to higher production costs and ultimately, was one of the major reasons for their failure.

FROM "THE WHAT GOES AROUND, COMES AROUND" DEPARTMENT

The Miller Brewing Company has introduced and is test marketing "Citro," a lime flavored beer. Remember Hop'n Gator and Lime Lager? Well, they could make a come back if Citro is successful!

In an effort to cover all categories of the beer industry, Anheuser-Busch Inc. announced an agreement with the Redhook Ale Brewing Inc. of Seattle to distribute Redhook's brands outside its current marketing area. In addition, Anheuser-Busch will purchase a minority equity share in Redhook. Redhook had 1993 sales of over 73,000 barrels. A new brewery located in Woodinville, Washington is to come on line later this year, and will raise their capacity to over 300,000 barrels. In addition, they are test marketing Elk Mountain Ale on draft in selected markets.

From the Window magazine comes word that China has become the world's second largest beer producing nation behind the U.S. Their production has increased five fold in the past ten years. International investors in the market include, Beck's, Heineken, San Miguel, Fosters and Pabst.

CONTEST 29 RESULTS

The reason for Contest 29, which asked for members to list the brewers who have used the Budweiser name over the years, was to see if I could turn up any that I was not aware of. I have kept a personal list as the subject has always intrigued me. There has been a variety of stories regarding the origin of the name and a continuing saga of lawsuits over the use of it. The basis of the arguments have been Anheuser-Busch Inc.'s claim that Budweiser is a brand name and comes under trademark status, while competitors have laid claim that Budweiser is a style of beer.

My list of brewers who have used the Budweiser name over the years is as follows:

1 - Anheuser-Busch Inc., St. Louis MO
2 - Budweiser Budvar, Budweis, Czechoslovakia
3 - DuBois Brewing Co., DuBois PA
4 - Budweiser Brewing Co., Brooklyn NY
5 - Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co., Milwaukee WI
6 - Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee WI
7 - Leisy Brewing Co., Peoria IL & Cleveland OH
8 - Athens Brewing Co., Athens GA
9 - Joseph Uhrig Brewing Co., St. Louis MO
10 - Prospect Brewery, Philadelphia, PA
11 - Yough Brewing Co., Connellsville PA

Two examples of coasters using the Budweiser name: DuBois Budweiser from DuBois Brewing Co., DuBois PA, and Budweiser Budvar Lager from Budweis, Czechoslovakia

In addition to the above, there has also been Niagara Bud, Carnation Bud and Canada Bud. Gene Fiscalini #13472 of San Luis Obispo, was the winner of Contest #29. For his efforts, he has been sent a Canadian Ace Beer brewed by the Tivoli Brewing Co., Denver CO.

In view of the fact that I am out of mint flats to award as contest prizes, the contest will be discontinued for a couple of months. Upon resumption, the prizes will have to be older tab tops, of which I have a lifetime supply!

CELCE

P.O. Box 1237
E-46-80 Valencia
Espana (Spain)
$21 (includes 15% tax and a free advertisement)

"Can lovers sometimes can pay almost 70,000 pesetas for a rare can..."

In 1987 the Coleccionistas Espanoles de Latas de Cerveza (Spanish Beer Can Collectors, or CELCE) was established in the old Spanish city of Valencia. It is a non-profit club whose members are from all over Spain along with some other countries, and their primary interest is beer cans with some interest in other breweriana. They hold annual national conventions, this year in Barcelona on October 23. And like our own BCCA, they produce a special commemorative can for the occasion. Upon joining this club, one receives a special membership card, a roster, and a subscription to CELCE, the club's bi-annual publication and a free advertisement.

The material in CELCE is mainly concerned with beer cans of Spain and some other countries. Most notable are the photographs of some test cans from Russia. Editorial also includes convention coverage, features on collectors such as Angel Gonzalez and his brother Manuel (8500 cans), histories of Spanish breweries, breweriana such as Spanish painted label beer bottles and brewery key rings. A forthcoming issue will cover Spanish openers. CELCE is written in both English and Spanish.

(A note to contributors: I am always interested in obtaining international publications on breweriana -- especially cans, of course. Any language is acceptable as I can readily have your publication translated into English from nearly any other language.)

Weizenbier

You Either Like it or you Don't!

Unfortunately, most German weizenbier is bottled, not canned. Here are samples of some of the few that are canned.

I've been told for many years that you had to develop a taste for beer. I'm not sure if that is really true because as best I can remember, I've always liked beer. I can say for a fact that it is true for weizenbier. After five years in Germany, I've really grown fond of weizenbier. Especially on a hot day when the beer is cold. Europeans traditionally drink their beer at room temperature or at best cool, and I've learned to do that with no problem, but weizenbier beer must be cold. Even the Germans agree on that!

Weizenbier came to southern Germany from Bohemia and may well have been brought there by Slavonic tribes. At any rate, it's been around a long time.

Weizenbier, or wheat beer, is made from part wheat and part barley. By German law, it must be made of at least one-third wheat malts; many weizenbiers are twice that! All other German beer (except for Berliner Weisse) is made from barley only. Weizenbier is brewed almost exclusively in the German states of Bavaria and Baden-Wurttemburg with the area around Munich being the center of weizenbier brewing.

Many Bavarians drink no other style beer. It is a pale to golden color, highly carbonated and malty. It appears slightly hazy when poured. It has a reputation as a tonic. Its yeast has a particularly high content of vitamin B2. A lot of Bavarian brewers make it a point to advertise the fact that the yeast has not been filtered out. They use the term "Hefeweizen" which means wheat beer with yeast.

A less popular type of weizenbier is hefeweizen, or crystalweizen, in which the yeast has been filtered out after brewing. Like all German beer, weizenbier is poured gently down the middle of the glass in order to produce a full head. This releases the excess carbonation and enhances the full bouquet. It is served in special tall, large mouthed, vase-shaped weizenbier glasses. Most German weizenbier drinkers prefer a slice of lemon in their beer.

(For more information on Weizenbier, see the May/June 1993 issue of the News Report "Inside the Package Looking Out" by Dave Gausepohl)

Can Close Up

M.C. Deluxe Cream Ale

This can is from the Mount Carbon Brewery Co., Pottsville PA, during 1938-39. It is identical in design to Class #21-8, M.C. Deluxe Pilsener Beer, except the colored circle behind the logo is pale green instead of the blue on the Beer cone. The Ale can has a vertical Cap Sealed panel on the reverse placing it in the late 1930s. The can was found full of ale in the late 1970s by a Toledo, Ohio collector who acquired a small collection of full cone tops.

The Cans of Progress

The Progress Brewery of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, opened in 1934 and closed in 1960. During its 26-year lifetime, only four cans were produced beginning after World War II, in either 1946 or 1947. All cans carried the brand name of Progress Select Beer. From left to right, the first can is a 12oz,one-sided, high profile cone top. It carries the wording, "Brewed from Choice Ingredients. Made with Pure Well Water." It was made by Continental Can Company and has Internal Revenue Tax paid on the top upper right of the can face, with the contents 12 Fluid Ounces at the top upper left. This can was produced until April 1, 1950, when IRTP was no longer required on beer labels and cans.

The second can is the same design as its earlier counterpart except it does not carry the IRTP wording, and the content 12 Fluid Ounces is at the top upper center of the can face. This is the rarer of the two cans, as it was produced for even a shorter time than the IRTP version. For that reason, the value of the earlier can is from $100 to $120, whereas the later version value ranges from $165 to $175.

The third can is a 12oz, two-sided high profile cone. The wording, "Oklahoma's Own Premium Quality" appear above and below the red oval. This is the rarest of all the Progress cans and was produced for no more than 6 months. In fact, many collectors believed that this was a fake cone -- a white flat top can with a cone top attached. However, the cone top body is 3/8" shorter than the flat top body, which disputes the "fake" theory. (I also have a dumper of this can that was found while the Arkansas River in Tulsa was being dredged.) The value of this can ranges from $140 to $150.

The fourth can is a 12oz, two-sided flat top, with the exact same design as the cone top version. This can was produced for most of 1960 and is the one seen most frequently. It occurs both with and without "Alcoholic Content in Excess of 3.2% by Weight" printed around the top lid of the can. It's value ranges from $85 to $95.

All four of these cans are rare. To my knowledge, the largest find of Progress cans was around Enid, Ok., in 1980, when approximately 12 cans were dumped.

Breweriana Close Up

Tennessee Brewing Co

Founded in 1885, the Tennessee Brewing Company manufactured 17 brands in it's 69 years of existence. Pre-prohibition brands included Goldcrest, Pilsener, Erlanger, Faultless, Columbian, Export and even their own Budweiser beers. Items from the pre-pro period are extremely rare, with only a few known to exist today. Among those items is this tray. It is from 1909 and features a factory scene of the brewery, somewhat embellished in the style of the day. This is the only tray known to have been made by the Tennessee Brewing Company, and less than ten examples are known to have survived.

After prohibition, the brewery rebounded with sales increases every year until 1949. Sales of the post-pro brands, Goldcrest, Goldcrest 51, Super Six, Berghoff, DeSoto, Schorr's, and 51 Select beers, Goldcrest Pale Ale, 51 Ale and Goldcrest Bock added up to a winning combination for the brewery's sales picture. But that all changed with increased competition from the emerging national brands. The brewery went under in 1954. An interesting note: it wasn't until 1936 that the "51" was added to their flagship brand, Goldcrest 51's name. It was added to commemorate the 51st year of the brewery and remained part of the name until the brewery closed.

The brewery canned only four brands: Goldcrest 51, 51 Select, Berghoff and DeSoto. All others were bottled and examples exist today of their labels in private collections, with the exception of the short lived Goldcrest Bock. A newspaper ad from 1949 advertising the brand exists as proof.

The main brewery building shown on the tray is still standing, empty and waiting for a knight in shining armour to save it from the inevitable wrecking ball. For collectors, we can remember this fine old building as it was, thanks to this tray.
